

Manan Ahuja is a third year medical student at McMaster University. Manan completed his Bachelor of Health Sciences degree at McMaster University in 2018 and is hoping to pursue a career in Internal Medicine.

Kaitlin Lewis is a second year medical student at McMaster University. She was formerly an Occupational Therapist who practiced in several hospital and community settings, which fostered her strong interest in geriatrics and caring for the elderly.

Monisha Basu is a third year medical student at the University of Toronto. Previously, she completed her bachelors degree at Western University.

Raphaelle Koerber is a third year medical student with the Michael G DeGroote School of Medicine. She completed a PhD in hearing science in 2018 and is interested in the impact of hearing loss on both access to care and cognition in older adults.

Scott MacKay is a medical student at the University of Calgary, where he has acted as a Geriatrics Interest Group executive. He has also helped found a student group targeting social isolation in older adults and contributed to the NGIG annual publication.

Alfiya Mukharyamova is currently a fourth-year medical student at McGill University. She was previously a research assistant at Sinai Health in Toronto as a Savlov/Schmidt Summer Scholar in 2018.

Cody Thompson is a third year Doctor of Pharmacy student at the University of Alberta. He has worked in a variety of both community and hospital settings.