

Aging on Film

Title/Cast	Description
Age-Old Friends (1989) Cast: Hume Cronyn Vincent Gardenia	Two men cope with their changing lives and identities in a long-term care facility. The film looks at the day-to-day existence of John Cooper and his friend in an upper-crust retirement home. His sharp wit and sarcasm have managed to distance him from his daughter and her family, but ultimately help him to cope with challenges of aging, including his friend's dementia. More lighthearted than it sounds.
After Life (1998) Japan	Set in a way station where people go after they die, the intriguing concept is that the dead must choose an important segment of their life and film it to take with them into the afterlife. The story revolves around a counselor, Takashi, who is assigned to help an old man called Ichiro. Their interaction causes Takashi to re-examine his own life. The film is a moving examination of the meaning of our lives.
The Ballad of Narayama (1983) Japan	The Ballad of Narayama is based on a Japanese legend. A century ago in a remote mountain village, custom dictates that villagers reaching age 70 are taken to Mount Narayama to die. The film is an affirmation of family, life, and death. The film was winner of the Grand Prize at the 1983 Cannes Film Festival. (Japanese with English subtitles)
Away From Her (2006) Canada Cast: Gordon Pinsent	A retired academic deals with his relationship with his wife, who has Alzheimer's disease. He is particularly haunted by his infidelity and when she transfers her attention to another resident in her nursing home, he is forced to re-examine their relationship.
Julie Christie Antonia's Line (1995) Holland	Antonia, the elderly matriarch of the family announces that she is
Cast: Willeke van Ammelrooy	going to die that day. The film recounts her life in the 40 years after the Second World War. Winner of the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar in 1996.
Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman (1974) Cast: Cicely Tyson Michael Murphy.	Miss Jane Pitman, a110-year old former slave, reviews her life for a young print journalist. Miss Jane also is inspired by the young people of her community who are involved in the Civil Rights struggle and despite her age becomes involved in a climactic final scene of protest.
Babette's Feast (1987)	Based on a tale by Karen Blixen, the film tells the story of a remote village where two elderly sisters, Martina and Phillipa, have lived a quiet life devoted to the stern religious community developed by the father many years ago. Babette, a refugee from Paris, has worked for them for 14 years. Her presence is felt in the tiny community by her good works and wonderful cooking. When Babette wins the Paris lottery she uses the money to purchase the food required to make a fabulous French dinner and serves it to the sisters and members of the dwindling religious community. The old people experience an epicurean evening before resuming their austere, simple ways.

The Straight Story (1999) Cast: Richard Farnsworth Sissy Spacek	Based on a true account, film by David Lynch tells the story of 73- year old Alvin Straight, who drove his 1966 John Deere lawnmower 240 miles from Iowa to Wisconsin to visit his estranged and ailing brother. Filmed along the actual route taken by Straight, the journey is , ,	related in a series of encounters, highlighted by warmth, humor, fear, courage, and caring. Farnsworth's portrayal of Straight earned him an Oscar nomination for best actor.
Tatie Danielle (1990) France	Tatie Danielle is nasty to all around her and even to her pet. While very funny, Tatie's unrelenting manipulative and deceitful behavior has a dark edge. The film offers layered questions e.g., "should I be laughing at this film?", "am I laughing because I'm buying into a negative stereotype?" (French with English subtitles)
That's Life ( 1986)	Jack Lemmon plays a wealthy architect turning 60. Preoccupied with
Cast: Jack Lemmon Julie Andrews	his own concerns about growing older, he is oblivious to the concerns of his wife who is awaiting results from health tests. While this is going on, their children return home to present the parents with all their challenges. This is a feel-good film that deals with transitions to adulthood and to old age; it is light but doesn't trivialize the concerns of the characters.
The Trip to Bountiful (1985)	A sensitive and powerful portrayal of an old woman's desire to visit the home of her childhood in the rural Texas town of Bountiful. The Cast: Geraldine Paige	tale unfolds in three acts; her unhappy life with her son and daughter-in-law, her "escape", and her return to her original home in Bountiful. The restorative confrontation of past and present in Bountiful is what makes this a superb film on aging. Paige received an Oscar for her portrayal.
The Sunshine Boys (1975)	Two former vaudevillians, Al Lewis and Willie Clark, are reunited for a television retrospective of comedy. Willie's nephew works hard to
Cast: Walter Matthau George Burns Richard Benjamin	unite the aged team and eventually is rewarded when his uncle begins to treat him like a member of his family.
Tell Me a Riddle (1980)	The film portrays an old couple, estranged in their old age; the husband wanting to retreat to an old people's home and the wife
Cast: Melvyn Douglas Lila Kedrova Karen Allen.	retreating to memories of her political coming of age as a teenager in Russia. When the wife is diagnosed with cancer, the couple visits their children and end up in San Francisco, where they are taken in by a grandchild.
Whales of August (1987)	Two sisters spend a summer at a seaside house in Maine. They recall their rivalries and relationship as younger women. They have
Cast : Lillian Gish Bette Davis	experienced aging differently and this adds to the tensions in their relationship. Vincent Price surprisingly plays a love interest.
Wild Strawberries (1957) Sweden	This classic Ingmar Bergman film focuses on the reminiscences and dreams of an elderly man as he travels to Lund to receive a prestigious award for his lifetime service as a physician. The journey brings self-revelations that are disturbing as well as pleasant, forcing a realization that there is integrity "in this chain of unexpected, entangled events." A Woman's Tale (1992)	A beautiful film (directed by Paul Cox) about an old woman who Australia	exemplifies integrity and hope in the face of death. Rich and honest in depiction of her relations with family and friends. The lead actress, Cast: Sheila Florence	who was herself dying of cancer when she made this film, won the Australian Academy Award for her portrayal. Her performance has been described as one of the bravest ever filmed.
Waking Ned Devine (1999)	Commercial director Kirk Jones makes his feature directing debut
Ireland	with a story about a small town in Ireland called Tulaigh More, where one of their 52 inhabitants wins the lotto jackpot of nearly seven Cast: Ian Bannen, Fionnula	million pounds. When nobody claims it, the town goes on a search to Flanagan, David Kelly	find out why. They find the winner, old Ned Devine, dead a smile on his face, clutching the winning ticket. What ensues is a community coming together in hopes of getting his money to split 51 ways. What they learn is the importance of friendship and the true value of
